

BACKGROUND MATERIALS

Lecture 4 - Gender & Global South Perspective

GENDER: SUGGESTED MATERIALS

Gender, Climate Change & Health

A good overview by WHO

tiny.cc/whogenderclimate

Climate Change and Violence against Women Rights: A Call for an Ecofeminist Approach

Oladosu Adenike outlines the connections between violence against women rights and climate change. There are more interesting articles on her blog - we recommend browsing a bit through it.

tiny.cc/ecofeminist

Moving as One. Integrating the Health and Climate Agendas for Planetary Health in a Post-Pandemic World

The third point of this policy brief focuses on scaling up gender-just solutions as a lever to implement the Paris Agreement and the SDGs.

https://publications.iass-potsdam.de/rest/items/item_6000189_4/component/file_6000239/content

How empowering women can stop global warming

This TED Talk by Katherine Wilkinson gives a good insight into the connections of gender and climate Change

http://tiny.cc/TED_talk

Mothers of Invention Podcast

Climate change is a man-made problem — with a feminist solution!

www.mothersofinvention.online

BACKGROUND MATERIALS

PLANETARY HEALTH
ACADEMY

Lecture 4 - Gender & Global South Perspective

GLOBAL SOUTH: SUGGESTED MATERIALS

The global injustice of the climate crisis

This is a good introduction into the issue of climate justice and the injustices between Global North and Global South in this context.

tiny.cc/climateinjustice

Planetary Health Eastern Africa Hub

In the PHEAH, planetary health actors from Eastern Africa come together to share their perspective. If you are interested in learning more about the Eastern African perspective, we highly recommend the recordings of these sessions

tiny.cc/pheah

Carbon Map

Here you can play around with several features of the map to see who is emitting, and who is effected by climate change. This is a good introduction to climate justice.

www.carbonmap.org

Both gender & global south perspectives are diverse and there are many great resources out there. We are aware that this list is by far not exhaustive. If you have interesting readings or videos, do share them with us and we will update this list!